

NINE DROWNED.

Steamer Margaret Otwell, Laden With Stone, Foundered in Lake Erie.

The Rescued Members of the Crew Were Found Floating on the Surface of the Lake, Clinging to Wreckage—Their Rescue Was Heroic.

CLEVELAND, O., June 30.—In the heavy northeast gale Wednesday night the steamer Margaret Otwell, laden with stone from Kelly's Island to Cleveland, foundered in Lake Erie off Lorain. Nine persons were drowned. Four members of the crew have been picked up by passing steamers and brought into port.

The dead are: Capt. John C. Braun, master, of Cleveland; Lizzie Braun, wife of master, Cleveland; Blanchard Braun, their 9-year-old son; Mrs. Cora A. Hitchcock, a passenger, Cleveland; William Doyle, fireman, of Cleveland; George Heffron, seaman, of Cleveland; Frank Hipp, watchman, of Cleveland; two seamen, names and residences unknown.

The rescued: John Smith, first mate, of Cleveland; Alex. McRea, chief engineer, of Cleveland; Luke Schinski, second engineer, of Cleveland; Duncan Coyne, seaman, of Cleveland. Smith, McRea and Schinski were rescued by members of the crew of the steamer Sacramento and taken into Lorain by the tug Cascade. Coyne was picked up by the passenger steamer, State of Ohio, and landed at Toledo Thursday. From the reports of the survivors, the Otwell's cargo of stone shifted while the vessel was laboring in the trough of the sea. Shortly before she went down the rudder chains parted, allowing her to fall off into the trough. As the helpless craft rose on top of a heavy sea, the stone slid to leeward, the steamer listed heavily, and sank to the bottom. The rescued members of the crew were found floating on the surface of Lake Erie, clinging to bits of wreckage. Their rescue was attended by exhibitions of extreme heroism, for a heavy sea was still running when they were picked up.

The Margaret Otwell left Kelly's Island at 6 o'clock Wednesday night bound for Cleveland with a cargo of stone. There was little or no wind blowing, but at 10 o'clock the gale commenced and the wind blew from the northwest at the rate of 30 miles an hour. Suddenly the gale turned to the northeast and Capt. Braun found that the boat was making little headway and concluded to turn back and go with the storm.

The vessel had turned half way round when the rudder chains parted, and in an instant the boat was at the mercy of the storm. She was caught between the two waves, and as she was borne along the top of one of them she rolled over on her side. The cabins came loose from the hull of the barge and floated on the water, while the rest of the ship went to the bottom. Coyne, caught part of the after cabin and climbed up on it. Heffron was clinging to a part of the same cabin.

Capt. Willoughby, of the steamer Ohio, sighted the wreckage about 5:15 in the morning and after sailing around the wreckage for an hour and a half Coyne was rescued. Heffron was thrown a line but he was too weak to take hold of it and went down. Several attempts were made to get the yawl boat in the water but the sea was still running high and the work was extremely perilous. Heffron's death was a pathetic one for he grabbed the rope and being encouraged by the crowd made a superhuman effort to put the rope around himself but he was too weak and had to give up the desperate struggle with the waves.

The rescue of Coyne was effected with difficulty. Expert lifelines walked up and down the steamer and every time the big boat could be worked near him a line would be thrown. Finally he reached one of them and quickly got it around his body. He was more dead than alive when taken in.

Tanner Thursday contracted with the Big Four and Illinois Central railways to take the Negro non-union miners at Pana out of the state and Thursday afternoon the Big Four took two coach loads, 120 men, women and children, while Thursday night the Illinois Central took those remaining—about 200 in number. The destinations are unknown.

THE BUILDING DEDICATED.

Opening of the Saengerfest Golden Jubilee—About 12,000 People Witnessed the First Concert.

CINCINNATI, June 30.—The vast egg-shaped interior of the Saengerfest building held not less than 12,000 people Thursday night to witness the dedication of the building and the concert. A pretty incident happened when Conductor Elsenheimer came out from the wings to take the baton in "Weilhe der Kuenste," the $1,000 prize cantata. He was literally pelted with garlands of roses and wreaths of evergreen. Even after he had mounted the platform and with baton in hand ready to begin, he was made the target of admiring friends in the chorus and orchestra.

The soloists were all on hand, and acquitted themselves nobly. The audience was especially kind to Miss Maconda, the first to appear.

The good, old time-honored custom of all fests, the presentation of the flag, made a picturesque scene—a picture that will linger in the minds of all good

Musical Director of the Saengerfest Jubilee.

Germanians doubtless for many years. This followed the speeches of Presidents Deller, of the band, and Bettmann, of the Saengerfest, and Mayor Tafel, and was participated in by President Bettmann and John Dilling, the latter the president of the last Saengerfest held two years ago at Pittsburgh. The flag, a graceful white affair, heavily adorned with silken and metal ornamentation, was carried out to the center of the stage by Member Berghausen, of the executive board, and then the simple exercises of presentation were given. President Bettmann receiving it from Mr. Dilling's hands with a few well chosen words.

THE BROKERS ARE ENJOINED

A Sensational Move Made on the Ticket Scalpers Who Are Handling Saengerfest Railroad Tickets.

CINCINNATI, June 30.—A sensational move was made Thursday in the fight between the railroads and the ticket scalpers.

Judge Taft, of the United States court, was applied to and enjoined all Cincinnati brokers from dealing in Saengerfest tickets issued by the R. & O. S. W. company.

Almost at the same moment application was made to Judge Jackson, of the superior court, by the Big Four and the C. H. & D. railroads, to enjoin brokers in Cincinnati from selling Saengerfest tickets issued by their lines.

This ties up the ticket brokers precisely as they were during the G. A. R. national encampment. The court followed the decision of United States Judge Clark in the Nashville centennial case.

The ground of the injunction is that by the establishing of low rates the railroads have special contracts with Saengerfest visitors. These contracts require the original purchaser to use the low rate tickets on the return trip, or not at all.

SONGS OF THE FATHERLAND.

The German Ambassador SendsGreetings to the President of the Golden Jubilee Saengerfest at Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The German ambassador at Washington, Dr. Von Holleben, has sent the following greeting to Fest President Bettmann, for the Golden Jubilee Saengerfest, now in session:

"To the North American Saengerbund: I send on this occasion of its golden jubilee my sincere congratulations. May the refreshing and character-enobling songs of the fatherland, transplanted here from the old country, find still further in the singing societies of North America a true place of culture, for the renown of the old and for the best interest of the new country."

"HOLLEBEN, Imperial ambassador."

Death of Gen. Madill.

TOWAND, Pa., June 30.—Maj. Gen. Henry J. Madill died here Thursday aged 70 years. He enlisted in the 6th Pennsylvania reserves in 1861 and was made major of the regiment. He was made a brigadier general in 1899 and breveted major general.

Terrific Hail Storm in Texas.

THE LION HAD FEELINGS.

He Showed Them, Too, When He Pounced on an Empty Coat on a Log.

"People who imagine that animals haven't got feelings don't know what they are talking about," said the Yellowstone park guide, as he sat cleaning his rifle. "I was cutting a trail around one of the spoutin' springs one day, and gettin' warmed up, threw my coat over the end of a log. By and by I went off to hunt for a drink of water, and it was, perhaps, half an hour before I returned to my work."

"When I came up it was to see a whalin' big mountain lion creepin' along to spring on the coat. It was over the log in a way to make it look like a man stoopin' down, and the lion was nicely deceived. He skulked up to within 15 feet of the log, crouched for a moment, and laid back his ears, and then he made two jumps of it. Greased lightning wasn't in it with that critter. It was like a big ball of fur shot from a cannon, and as he flew he uttered a screech which brought my hair on end. If that coat had been a man he wouldn't have had time to say: 'Gum.' The lion lit down on it with claws and teeth ready for business, and in five seconds the garment was cut into carpet rags."

"Then he realized the cheat, and you never saw a human being look so foolish. His tail went down to the earth, the fire died out of his eyes and he's have given $40 for some one to kick him up hill. His chagrin was so plain that I laughed right out, and that broke his heart. He looked at me and whimpered like a puppy, and when I asked if his mother knew he was out, he fetched a sort of sob in his throat, and sneaked off like a dog caught killin' sheep. If I could have run fast enough to have caught him by the tail he would not have looked back. He knew he had made a fool of himself, and he wanted to get off and hide himself and have a long think."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Proof of the Czar's Sincerity.

The recent landing of 8,000 Doukhobors or Spirit Wrestlers in Canada is another proof of the sincerity of the czar of Russia in wishing to bring about the reign of universal peace and good will. These people were driven to leave their homes in Caucasus provinces of Russia by the persecutions of the czar's officers. They correspond closely in religious faith to the Quakers, and were welcomed to their new homes on this continent by Quakers from the United States. The Doukhobors have been persecuted for more than a century in Russia. Time and again their villages have been broken up, and they have been driven to wander and more desolate parts of the Russian empire. The leader among them is Prince Nikkoloff, a Russian nobleman, who became a convert to the religious faith of the Spirit Wrestlers, and gave up his estates and position in consequence. "Frankness and crime are unknown at the sect."—Chicago Tribune.

Baking and Stuffing White Fish.

The usual rule for baking fish is 15 minutes to the pound, with an extra ten or fifteen minutes' allowance if the fish is unusually thick. A good stuffing for whitefish is as follows: One cupful of cracker or dry bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of chopped onion, two tablespoonfuls of chopped suet or bacon, or one large tablespoonful of butter; one-third of a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of finely-chopped pickles, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. If a moist stuffing is desired, add one-quarter of a cupful of milk.—Boston Budget.

Selling a Well.

A Hartford (Conn.) lawyer tells of a client in one of the adjoining towns who had a farm to sell. He had recently sunk a well on it, and the job cost quite a sum; consequently when he talked of disposing of his property, the well caused him considerable anxiety.

"How much do you ask for the farm?" the lawyer asked.

"Waa, I'll tell yer," drawled the farmer; "I'll sell the place for $700 with the well, and I'll let it go for $600 without the well."—Philadelphia Times.

SHE GOT IT.

But It Took the Bystanders to See the Humor of the Situation.

A lot of people were present at an auction sale of Japanese goods the other day.

"How much am I bid for this exquisite vase?" asked the auctioneer, holding it above his head.

"One dollar," responded an elderly lady, sitting in one of the front seats.

"That's a shame," cried the man with the hammer. "This vase, as a work of art, is worth four times the sum. Why, look at it. Will an intelligent audience allow such a sacrifice?"

"A dollar and a quarter," came in the same woman's voice.

"Well, well, well! Can't you see that this is a treasure, and you stand here and allow it to be given away for such a paltry sum?"

"A dollar and a half." Again it was the same bidder speaking.

"A dollar and a half! The very ideal!" ejaculated the auctioneer. "I never saw the like. Come, good people, what is the meaning of this? One of the mankind's special designs slighted in such a manner! It is a reflection on your taste."

"A dollar seventy-five," said the solitary bidder.

"I cannot let it go for that," was the man's reply. "It is too costly, too precious, and too rare in pattern. Wake up, or I'll put it back in the box."

"Two dollars," the woman said.

"Well, it doesn't seem as if I can get any more, so here goes. Two dollars—once, twice, three times! Sold to a lady there at that shameful figure."

The lady stepped up, paid for and received her vase, and departed, apparently without noticing the actions of the audience.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

GREAT LEGAL VICTORY.

Value of an Honored Trade Name Upheld by the United States Circuit Court.

The California Fig Syrup Co., of San Francisco, has just won a legal victory which is of utmost public interest, as it establishes judicially a fact long recognized ethically that the name or the title of an article is valuable property, entitled to the same protection as chattels or commercial paper. The company mentioned manufactures an excellent laxative which has been extensively advertised and acquired a valuable reputation under the name "Syrup of Figs," or "Fig Syrup." Trading on the reputation of this remedy other manufacturing concerns applied the same name to laxative medicines made by them. The California Fig Syrup Co. took the matter in the United States courts and obtained a permanent injunction, of which the following is the text:

"It is thereupon ordered, adjudged and decreed, that the injunction and restraining order heretofore made herein be continued until final decree herein, and to that end that an injunction be issued as prayed for in the bill of complaint herein, strictly commanding and enjoining the defendants, 'Clinton E. Worden & Company,' a corporation, J. A. Bright, T. P. Beach, E. Little, C. J. Schmelz and Lucius Little, and each and all of them, their agents, workmen, servants, attorneys and counselors, from making, using or selling any liquid laxative medicine, marked with the name 'Syrup of Figs,' or 'Fig Syrup,' or any colorable imitation of the same, from making, using or selling any liquid laxative medicine put up in boxes, wrappers or cartons, having on the same the name 'Syrup of Figs,' or 'Fig Syrup,' or any colorable imitation of the same, from making, using or selling any liquid laxative medicine, bearing upon it the figure of a branch of a fig tree with leaves and fruit, and surrounded by the words in a circle 'San Francisco Syrup of Figs Company, San Francisco, Cal.,' or any similar words or figures, or any colorable imitation of such a symbol or mark, or from making use of in any way in connection with a liquid laxative medicine the name 'Syrup of Figs Co.' or from using any name whereof the words 'Fig Syrup Co.' or 'Syrup of Figs Co.' form a part as a business name of a company, or concern, or corporation engaged in the business of making and selling a laxative medicine."

"This decision is of far-reaching importance, to all manufacturers whose products bear a recognized title, as well as a protection to the public whose confidence naturally rests in a large measure upon the name of the goods it buys."

He Learned How.
